Pennsylvania Free Enterprise Week

Pennsylvania Free Enterprise Week is an economic education program designed to help high school students understand the Free Market Economics System and how our economy, and its health, affects them no matter what career path they may follow by:

- Providing an intense one-week learning experience that includes the examination of various management and market-oriented issues
- Providing an environment for students to examine different career paths and what they must do to prepare for those careers
- Bringing together volunteer business leaders to talk with students about jobs in their businesses and respective career fields
- Providing an opportunity for students to explore career paths perhaps never considered, while allowing local employers to build connections with potential employees
- Providing students with a fun, practical, hands-on learning experience that allows them to gain exposure to college life and to enhance their college applications
- Providing an environment for candid discussion between program participants and today's business leaders
- More information is available at www.pfew.org

PA Free Enterprise Week is held at the campuses of Lycoming College or Pennsylvania College of Technology (both in Williamsport). This is a rare opportunity for students to experience life on a college campus.

Please share this information with your parents and if you are interested in this opportunity, please stop in the guidance office for an application. The "Early Bird" application deadline is March 2, 2018. Those applications received by March 2nd will receive preferential treatment in the awarding of scholarships and the assignment of the week of their choice.

The final deadline is April 6, 2018.
